TO: All Labor Organizations, Civil Rights Organizations and Guests

On behalf of the Beaver-Lawrence Central Labor Council and Beaver County NAACP, we cordially invite you to attend the fourth Human Rights Banquet of the Beaver-Lawrence Central Labor Council Community Services Committee to be held on Saturday, June 28, 2014, at the Fez Banquet Hall in Hopewell Township.

Reverend Dr. William J. Barber, II will be the banquet's keynote speaker. Reverend Barber serves as the President of the North Carolina NAACP State Conference and is the Convener of the Historic Thousands on Jones Street (HKonJ) People's Assembly Coalition.

HKonJ is a coalition of more than 160 partnering organizations that have united to challenge extremist attacks in North Carolina on voting rights, economic justice, public education and equal protection under law. Its challenge to these attacks has been most visibly expressed through its Moral Monday Mobilizations, the latest of which, on February 8th of this year, brought approximately 80,000 participants to a rally in front of the State Capital building in Raleigh.

The Moral Monday Movement has spread across other southern states and has inspired people across our nation. We are honored to present Reverend Barber and his message to Western Pennsylvania.
